Jeff's practice focuses on creditor's rights issues, bankruptcy and commercial litigation, and has expertise in a number of related areas, including receiverships, foreclosures, and real estate law. A lot of his time is spent representing financial institutions and lenders, but he does work for all types of clients. He is known for bringing a balanced approach to each situation.

Prior to joining Graydon, Jeff completed a two-year clerkship with GE Aviation in its Intellectual Property department. As an engineer, Jeff spent four years working as a project manager in the automotive industry for an international trading and engineering company. His experience prior to becoming a lawyer gives him a unique perspective on the day-to-day issues that arise in the field of law.

Jeff is a 2007 graduate of Northern Kentucky University Salmon P. Chase College of Law where he earned his J.D. He also earned a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Cincinnati in 2000.

Jeff currently resides in Green Township with his wife, Alison, and their three children.
