Nancy's main experience thus far has been as in-house General Counsel, which started a year after graduating law school. She handled everything from contract negotiations, and compliance (including ITAR, Blood borne Pathogen Programs, Dangerous Goods, OSHA Safety, and Data and Privacy) to general business matters. Nancy's experience has given her an in depth understanding of client needs when approaching problems, because she is used to sitting in their shoes when being the problem solver.

Graduating with her Bachelor's Degree a year early, Nancy took a year off prior to starting law school. During that time she worked for a local non-profit organization, The Woman's City Club, managing their office, and for a local practitioner running her traffic division as her paralegal. As if she wasn't busy enough, she'd spend nights serving at a local restaurant.

In law school, Nancy was a member of the Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot Team, helped out with the U.S Sixth Circuit Appellate Clinic, and was a teaching assistant for the Dean.

Nancy loves to travel and spent a month backpacking across Europe with her sister, and even met the Pope while on her honeymoon in Italy. She lives in Milford with her husband, their daughter Eleanor, and their two dogs Jeffrey & Thor.
